and the Graduate Student Association Present :

GRADUATE SCHOOL NIGHT

Have you ever asked the following questions about graduate school in psychology?

- “What graduate degree in psychology is right for me?”
- “What’s the difference between the Ph.D. and Psy.D.?”
- “What do faculty look for in a prospective graduate student?”
- “How do I get good letters of recommendation for graduate school?”
- “What can I do now to be more competitive for graduate school in psychology?”
- “Should I take a gap year before applying to graduate school?”
- “What do I need to do to apply for graduate school?”
- “How do I go about writing my personal statement?”

If you answered “yes” to any of these questions, this is the place for you! Career Services will present important information about graduate school in psychology, and a panel of current faculty in the Department of Psychological and Brain Sciences along with current graduate students from each discipline will participate in a Q & A.

WHEN: Thursday,
October 7th from 6-7:30
PM

WHERE: University
Student Center Room 310
